

LONG-MISSING DOCTOR TRACED TO MONTREAL

Wife Discovers Husband's Whereabouts as a Result of Clue Supplied by Friend

Dr. S. Millington Miller, brother of E. Spencer Miller, lawyer and clubman, of 312 South 10th street, who has been missing for seven years and against whom suit has been brought for divorce, is now living in Montreal.

Suit against Doctor Miller was brought by his wife, Mrs. Margaret Hines Miller, a student in the Cornell Agricultural School, for unpaid alimony in the Supreme Court of New York yesterday.

Doctor Miller, according to the plaintiff, dropped out of sight in 1908. She traced him through friends to Montreal, in which city, witnesses testified, he was living with another woman and her baby.

The physician, who is 39 years old, was married twice. His first wife was Miss Elizabeth Blodde, of this city, who died in 1887.

News of the suit and the fact that his brother was alive in Montreal came as a shock to Attorney Miller today.

"I have not been in touch with him more than two or three times in the last 20 years," he said. "My brother has not lived here in that time and I know nothing of his difficulties." Mr. Miller also said he knew nothing of his brother's second marriage.

Following the death of his first wife in 1887 Miller began an extravagant existence, which continued until he met Miss Hines. They were married in February, 1890, and made a world tour for their honeymoon.

The second Mrs. Miller brought charges of cruel and inhuman treatment against Miller in 1908. She convinced the court of the truth of the charges and won a separation with alimony of $300 a month. Shortly after the case was decided Miller disappeared.

PALACE FOR BIRD GUESTS AT ZOO NEARS COMPLETION

Built of White Brick, With Italian Garden Approach

The new aviary at the Philadelphia Zoological Gardens is now half completed and officials believe that the "feathered" guests may take possession of their new quarters in the early spring.

The building when completed will be one of the finest of its kind in the United States and supplants the present structure, which is more than 40 years old.

The plans of the Zoological Society also include the improvement of the park lake on which the building fronts. The building is to be constructed of white brick with a large dome and covering of glass.

It is 150 feet long and 60 feet high, semi-circular at the rear, with two extensions. The main entrance will be near the water's edge. Two large evergreen trees will be planted at the entrance, while the door will be surmounted with stately and finished in Corinthian style with iron mountings. There will be three entrances.

One of the features of the new aviary will be an Italian garden-walk, bordered by trees from which the birds may be seen through the glass partitions of the building. Quarters for two keepers, which will be fitted up with modern kitchenettes and baths, and an "isolation" room, or bird hospital, are also included in the plan.

Superintendent Carson said today that open-air flying cages are also to be installed similar to those in Rock Creek Park, Washington, D. C., where cages for both large and small birds have been provided. The new aviary, he said, is distinctly original in design and up-to-date in every detail.

POLICE SERGEANT BURIED

Members of Department Attend Brady Obsequies

Representatives from every police station in the city and from many fraternal organizations attended the funeral services for John William Brady, former police sergeant, who died at the Lehigh streets station, which were held at 3:30 this morning. A solemn High Requiem Mass was sung in the Church of Our Lady of Mercy, which was in the New Cathedral Cemetery.

Members of the 15th and Locust streets station attended in a body. Among the organizations represented were Marquette Court, No. 289, Knights of Columbus; Court Chocknick, No. 142, Foresters of America; the Cokochnik Beneficial Association and the Feather Burke Beneficial Association. The funeral was held at 3:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Brady, 1506 Greenwood avenue, on January 2 from pneumonia, which followed an attack of grip. Mrs. Brady, who has been ill for several weeks, was unable to attend the funeral. She insisted, however, on being carried downstairs last night to arrange the flowers on the casket.

HE GOT HER GOAT

Also Two Kids Which Negress Says Belong to the Nanny

"Some man's got mah goat." That was Agnes Phillips, a negress, of 7923 Madison avenue, begin the discussion of a legal point, which several policemen declared, "has their goat."

"Three weeks ago ah bought a goat off of Ralph Jackson, 7927 Madison avenue," she told Judge McFarland, at the 64th street and Woodland avenue station. "Ah paid him $3 on account and was to pay $6 more. But dat goat, which was a nanny-goat, done left and went back home. Day Ralph Jackson's goat mah goat and had it evah since."

Not only did Jackson refuse to give her the goat, she said, but also two kids which came into the world the day after the goat returned to its former home, claiming that the kids were his, as they were born on his property.

"It's got my goat," Sergeant McFarland said, "but it's deep for me. Go to City Hall and get a warrant." The woman did this and today they are trying to straighten out the tangle at City Hall.

DOG LISTENS TO LECTURE ON TRUSTS AT UNIVERSITY

Refuses to Leave Classroom When Professor Lewis Speaks

Prof. William Draper Lewis raised his voice to emphasize a point on the subject of "Trusts" in the classroom in the Law School of the University of Pennsylvania today. "Go on, go on," came a yell from below the platform on which he was standing. The professor's attention and that of the students were directed to the point as was resumed.

A little yellow cur was wagging his tail and whining as though what the professor had just said would break his heart. "Here, doggie," called Mr. Lewis, "come now." He snatched his fingers and called, without avail. Then he whistled and coaxed some more, but the little yellow cur wanted to remain in the classroom and refused to budge.

The matter caused considerable amusement among the secondary students, and they, too, tried coaxing, but the best they could do was to get within reaching distance, only to have the animal dart under their legs or scurry to another part of the room. Finally, Vincent Freedy, a student coming to the room, picked up his little black bag, the kind that many lawyers forget to discard after leaving college, advanced with determination and, with a yell, threw the dog's head.

The animal was carried from the room amid the cheering of the students, and the lecture now no one seems to know.

BELGIAN WOMAN, A HEROINE, PLEADS FOR BELGIAN HEROES

Vicomtesse de Ranouneux Asks Aid for "Back-of-Line" Families

The Vicomtesse de Ranouneux thrilled a large audience in the Emergency Aid headquarters in Walnut street today with a European war story of daring and heroism of which most of those present thought women incapable.

The Vicomtesse took occasion to explain her mission to this country and describe in detail just what the situation is in war-torn Belgium. She carefully distinguished between the work of the National Commission for Relief in Belgium and the work upon which she has embarked here.

The commission's activities are confined to the invaded part of Belgium, and heretofore little help has been given to the 20,000 people occupying a more strip of territory along the sea coast not so far from the front.

It is to obtain funds to buy clothing and supplies for these people that the Vicomtesse is here. The Vicomtesse is very stylish looking and dresses in a simple, elegant, uniform, patterned after that of the Belgian private. She appears far too weak to undergo the hardships of life near the battle front, to say nothing of doing a man's work every day driving a motorcar.

Yet such is the sort of woman she is. She dislikes to talk about her heroic feat of driving a motorcar into the Ypres section when the battle was at its height to carry 200 bottles of milk to dying babies. She was actually under fire and many shells fell perilously close to her machine.

"For my soldiers I come to ask you Philadelphians to help the families back of the front line," said the Vicomtesse in a pleading, earnest voice. "You can relieve the strain on the women in the trenches by sending supplies to their families. With the knowledge that their home ones are properly cared for they will bear the hardships much better."

She said that she had seen the women in the trenches with their children and that they were suffering from lack of food and clothing. She said that she had seen the women in the trenches with their children and that they were suffering from lack of food and clothing.
